Intergovernmental Agreement – Northern Australia Indigenous Development Accord

Recitals

1. This Intergovernmental Agreement – Northern Australia Indigenous Development Accord (“the Accord”) has been developed to recognise the work of the Indigenous Reference Group (IRG) to the Ministerial Forum on Northern Development (MFND) in progressing Indigenous economic development in northern Australia. This Accord has been developed in consultation with the IRG.
2. The Accord provides a framework for the Parties to work together and individually to advance Indigenous economic development in northern Australia. The Implementation Plan for the recommendations of the IRG, set out at Schedule A, guides the actions that the Commonwealth and the States and Territory will take to achieve this.
3. The Parties recognise that Indigenous participation in the economy is essential to fully realise the development of northern Australia. The IRG has challenged governments to do more with existing resources; go beyond business as usual to facilitate Indigenous economic development; and improve collaboration across government and with Indigenous people. This Accord provides a framework to address this challenge.
4. The Parties recognise that they and Indigenous community stakeholders have a mutual interest in maximising the economic opportunity and contribution of northern Australian Indigenous businesses, individuals and communities in the northern development agenda. The IRG and the Parties recognise that better outcomes will be achieved by working together through a genuine and collaborative partnership-based approach, which involves engagement with a broad range of Indigenous stakeholders across the north.
5. The Accord emphasises the Parties’ commitment to ensuring Indigenous Australians are central to the northern Australia development agenda. Governments respect the work of the IRG to develop practical policies that will address barriers to economic participation across a range of circumstances. Governments recognise the wide spectrum of Indigenous employment and enterprise capabilities and aspirations in the north.
6. Economic development is a productive path to long-term community wellbeing, and contributes to nation building. Parties support the IRG’s aspiration for Indigenous self-determination and economic independence through engagement in markets and the use of private capital.
7. The Parties recognise the need for more focused engagement between Indigenous interests across the north, governments, the private sector and Australia’s research and development communities.
8. The Parties also recognise the benefits that will accrue from mainstreaming the consideration of Indigenous economic development in government policy and program development, particularly in relation to the northern development agenda.
9. Actions undertaken will be consistent with and complement Closing the Gap commitments.
